Jake:

I just got an update from Scott on your meeting last week and have a few ideas that we will like to discuss with you as potential path forward.

What would be a good time to have a call with you? I am pretty open but from 10-11

Subject: FW: PCB Notification Question

All,
Momentive is planning a major update to their wastewater treatment system. They will be working in an area that has been identified as having PCB contamination. There are no LUC or Deed Restrictions. They have submitted a Soil Management Work Plan, which I approved. John heard from his contractor that they had to contact EPA if working in PCB contaminated soils. Is this true, or is the approved workplan enough? Or is this a TSCA issue?
Thanks
Jake

Subject: PCB Notification Question

Hello Jake,

Per our phone conversation today, I wanted to verify whether we (Momentive) need to notify the US EPA concerning our potential wastewater upgrade project that will require management of PCB impacted soils? As we discussed previously, our understanding was that the WVDEP had the lead on this process and that the approved soil management plan was the only thing needed to proceed. If possible, we would prefer to work through one agency but wanted to verify the proper path to proceed either way. Thanks for your help on this!!
